Maybe part of the attraction of college basketball for Chester was that he missed college (in the commercial context that he was in now).